4. [] Jack Ticer, Senate Armed Services Committee staff, called to be sure that we would be handling the processing of the transcripts of Mr. Helms' testimony. I told him that we were doing this and would probably be pouching this to Mr. Helms [] 25X1 Ticer asked if we could give him some idea as to the time this would take and also asked if corrections to General Cushman's testimony were being handled through us. I told him I thought they were.

7. [] Talked with David Martin, on the staff of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, who told me that the Subcommittee document on [] had been approved for publication by J. Sourwine, Chief Counsel of the Subcommittee, and is now at the Government Printing Office. Martin said he expected to have the galley proofs within the next few days and would send us a copy. [] 25X1 CI Staff, has been advised.

8. [] Jim Calloway, on the staff of the Senate Appropriations Committee, called and asked why the copies of the McCord letters had not been surfaced to the Committee before today. Jack Maury explained the background on these letters indicating that when they were first received they were not considered to contain any new information and they were merely filed. It was only recently that their existence was recalled. In our effort to keep our committees fully informed on the subject, we felt copies should be made available.
